The Horseplayer Monthly Breeders' Cup/November 2018 Issue

Welcome to the Breeders' Cup Issue

Race order & betting menu announced

The Breeders' Cup announced earlier this week the official order of races, and guaranteed multi-race wagering pools for the 2018 Breeders' Cup World Championships on Friday, November 2 and Saturday, November 3 at Churchill Downs in Louisville, Kentucky. There will be a total of 10 races (five Breeders' Cup races) on the first day of the Championships – now called "Future Stars Friday" – and 12 races on the Saturday program (nine Breeders' Cup races). The Friday program begins at 12:55 p.m. ET with four undercard races. The last race of the day, which follows the Sentient Jet Breeders' Cup Juvenile, will have a post time of 6:43 p.m. ET.

Championship Saturday's first post is 10:45 a.m. ET and begins with two undercard races. There will be one race following the Breeders' Cup Classic, which will have a post time of 6:22 p.m. ET.

Championships Race Order (All Times Eastern)

The first Championships race on "Future Stars Friday" will be the $1 million Breeders' Cup Juvenile Turf Sprint (3:21 p.m.); the $1 million Breeders' Cup Juvenile Fillies Turf (4:00 p.m.); the $2 million Tito's Handmade Vodka Breeders' Cup Juvenile Fillies (4:40 p.m.); the $1 million Breeders' Cup Juvenile Turf (5:22 p.m.) and the $2 million Sentient Jet Breeders' Cup Juvenile (6:05 p.m.).

Championship Saturday begins with two undercard races followed by the $1 million Breeders' Cup Filly & Mare Sprint (12:00 p.m.); the $1 million Breeders' Cup Turf Sprint (12:38 p.m.); the $1 million Breeders' Cup Dirt Mile (1:16 p.m.); the $2 million Maker's Mark Breeders' Cup Filly & Mare Turf (2:04 p.m.); the $2 million TwinSpires Breeders' Cup Sprint (2:46 p.m.); the $2 million Breeders' Cup Mile (3:36 p.m.); the $2 million Longines Breeders' Cup Distaff (4:16 p.m.); the $4 million Longines Breeders' Cup Turf (4:56 p.m.) and the $6 million Breeders' Cup Classic (5:44 p.m.).

Breeders' Cup Q & A with...

Craig Milkowski, TimeformUS

Q: What are your thoughts on the new race order with all the 2-year-old events on Friday?

A: I like it but probably for a different reason than others will. The 2-year-old races are my least favorite, so I'm happy to have them lumped together and not be mixed in with other races in horizontal bets like P3s, P4s, etc. I couldn't make the event this year in person, but I'd be more likely to skip attending Friday in the future if this format remains in the future.

Q: There's a lot of chatter on social media about the Dirt Mile not being necessary or being a hindrance on other races like the Classic and Sprint. Do you agree?

A: I think it hurts both races from a betting perspective. Two races have morphed into three and it shows in the field size of the Dirt Mile and the Sprint this year.

Q: What's your favorite Breeders' Cup memory (a bet you hit, a race, etc.)?

A: The Sprint last year with Roy H over Imperial Hint. I did a lot of interviews and radio spots and articles and always pointed out these two as strictly the ones to beat. I've hit bigger prices over the years and made more money on other races, but being right in public is a good feeling.

Q: Is Enable finally the horse to end the drought of Arc winners in the Turf? If not her, then who interests you?

A: She could be, but I'm going to play against her. Waldgeist interests me. He has some trouble in the Arc and I've had success betting some of the Arc also runs in the past, most notably Shirocco at a big price. I'd prefer he was using Lasix but with Andre Fabre as the trainer I can overlook that.

Q: In the other grass races, do the horses from the U.S. or Canada have any shot against the overseas invaders?

A: Certainly. I always favor the North American horses in the Turf Sprint and will continue to do so until a shipper wins. If they couldn't do it on the hill at Santa Anita, it is unlikely 5 1/2 furlongs at Churchill is going to help. Only one shipper has won the Mile in the last seven runnings. I also think Chad Brown's skill has really leveled the playing field with the European shippers. He'll certainly be a force in the Filly and Mare Turf and both Juvenile Turf races.

Q: The Juvenile seems to be as noteworthy for who won't be in it (Instagrاند, etc.) as who will be in it. What do you think about that race?

A: I think we have three very strong horses that will all be a factor on the Derby Trail if they stay healthy. As a speed figure guy I think Complexity, Game Winner, and Code of Honor all look great. Gunmetal Gray is also right there with any improvement.

Q: The Distaff features Abel Tasman taking on several talented 3-year-olds. Will you be playing one of them or going somewhere else?

A: I'll probably pass this race. I think Abel Tasman is clearly best but comes in off a bad race with a possible excuse as she might have been sick. I don't see the three year olds, or any of the others, offering any value.

Q: Who is the favorite you're taking a stand against and why?

A: Admittedly a lukewarm favorite at 5-1 on the morning line, but I don't get Polydream at all. This one isn't listed as getting Lasix which is a negative for me. One of the second choices in the race is Analyze It at 6-1, another I won't be using. In a wide open race I'll be swinging on some long prices.

Q: Who is the horse you're most excited to bet and why?

A: Promises Fulfilled is anywhere near his morning line of 6-1. I don't ever remember seeing a Sprint with this little speed, and he clearly should have an advantage in my opinion.

Q: The Classic: Accelerate or someone else (and who if someone else)?

A: McKinzie. I just can't get past Sadler's Breeders' Cup record and Accelerate isn't going to offer much in the way of price. I'll also use Mind Your Biscuits.

Breeders' Cup Q & A with...

Paul Matties Jr., 2016 NHC Champion

Q: What are your thoughts on the new race order with all the 2-year-old events on Friday?

A: I like it. At the very least, the Distaff is back on Saturday where it belongs. I'm guessing, but I think the long term plan is to eventually move the 2-year-old races forward to something like a Breeders' Cup Encore in December. If that is done, the fall 2-year-old stake schedule would develop more, and it would better because all these horses would have more time after Saratoga and Del Mar. It's always been a little bit of a hurry to make the Juvenile, even before we were inundated with all these overly patient supertrainers. Of course, we had a potential superstar like Instagrاند skip the Juvenile this year. Maybe, with more time and a bigger spotlight, that sort of thing wouldn't happen.

Q: There's a lot of chatter on social media about the Dirt Mile not being necessary or being a hindrance on other races like the Classic and Sprint. Do you agree?

A: Well, It definitely can be but, luckily, I don't think that's the case this year, as we don't have a situation like we did with Liam's Map, for example. Unfortunately, racing has lost its perspective a little with all this specialist racing. Horses like Winx and Frankel are great at what they do, but when you start calling mile turf horses the best horse since Secretariat, you allow for horses skipping their chance at being great. For example, Mind Your Biscuits has his best chance of winning a Breeders' Cup race in the Mile, but they're doing the right thing by running in the Classic. I think it's a tough assignment for him, and I have doubts about the mile and a quarter, but it doesn't mean he shouldn't be running in the Classic. Nobody in their right mind would skip the Kentucky Derby to run in the Pat Day Mile. It should be the same way with the Breeders' Cup Classic and the Dirt Mile.

Q: What's your favorite Breeders' Cup memory (a bet you hit, a race, etc.)?

A: The first Breeders' Cup was a big deal to me because I was young and I was following the news of it. Of course, it was different then, and on the East Coast, we didn't hear a lot about it beforehand, so you really had no idea what it was going to be like. I remember buying a Sports Eye (which is mainly a harness publication) because it had all the Breeders' Cup races in it ahead of time.

The first Breeders' Cup I attended in person was at Churchill in 1988, when Alysheba won the last race in the dark and that was a fun day. I've bet the winners of the Classic many times over the years, but the one that always comes back in my mind was one I lost, when Cat Thief won at Gulfstream in 1999. I had eight or nine horses going into that race, all to a varying degrees, but all for MAJOR scores, because I had loved Anees in the Juvenile, earlier in the card, and singled him in Pick-6's and whatever other pick-n's they had.

I still don't believe Cat Thief won that thing as he had won one of his last 11 of races going into the Breeders' Cup and lost his next 11 after the Breeders' Cup, but he had to beat me that day, somehow. In case, you don't remember, that's the Pick-6 that paid over $3 million dollars, and yes, I did have the horses who ran second and third, who were both longer in odds than Cat Thief.

I admit, it's been close to 20 years and its way past the five minute complaining rule, but it still bugs me when somebody says that horse won because he had a nasal strip on.

Q: Is Enable finally the horse to end the drought of Arc winners in the Turf? If not her, then who interests you?

A: It definitely appears that the Breeders' Cup was the goal with Enable all year, not the Arc, and she was able to win that again. When Juddmonte does something aggressive like this, they are very successful.

You do have to make a case for the other horse out of the Arc, Waldgeist, though. I can even buy the argument that Waldgeist was as good as Enable in the Arc, but my gut feeling is that Enable is going to move forward off the Arc. The problem with betting the race is that the American contingent is so weak. I will try to dream something wild up to go with the two main contenders, especially in the two-hole and three-hole in the gimmicks, but this certainly does look like the year that we finally have an Arc winner win at the Breeders' Cup.

Q: In the other grass races, do the horses from the U.S. or Canada have any shot against the overseas invaders?

A: I would say so. I never like to the concept of just deferring to the European horses, although like I said, they seem to have them over the barrel in the big one (Turf). All the other turf races, I don't think that's the case, but I prefer the European horses in the F&M Turf race, as well. I never think the Europeans have an advantage in a sprint race anywhere on the globe, 2-year-olds or older. Not surprisingly, they have very little chance in the Turf Sprint again this year. It also looks like the European milers aren't that good, either, so the North Americans might have an advantage there, too.

Q: The Juvenile seems to be as noteworthy for who won't be in it (Instagrand, etc.) as who will be in it. What do you think about that race?

A: Off of the figures, it's clearly the first two finishers in the American Pharoah vs. the first two finishers in the Champagne. Even though Game Winner and Complexity were impressive earning those big numbers, they did achieve them with ideal setups and ones they won't be able to repeat here. There are a couple other quality speeds that might impact the running style of the race and maybe a horse like Standard Deviation could get a piece of the gimmicks, but the winner has to be one of those four horses exiting those two aforementioned races.

I'm sure Gunmetal Gray will give a good account of himself, coming out of the Hollendorfer barn and with more pace, but the trip handicapper in me says don't overthink this and just go with Code of Honor off his horror trip last time at Belmont. With that said, I wish he was bred more for distance, especially going around two turns for the first time, but if he breaks better and with the probable pace scenario, he should be able to get this far.

The Derby might be entirely different, but we shouldn't get ahead of ourselves, yet.

Q: The Distaff features Abel Tasman taking on several talented 3-year-olds. Will you be playing one of them or going somewhere else?

A: From August, the perspective of this race has bounced all around. At Saratoga, Abel Tasman gave an incredible performance, and if she repeats that race, she won't lose.

On the other hand, Monomoy Gal was not impressive going a mile and an eighth in the Coaching Club, and she didn't look like she was progressing to have any chance versus older horses.

Then, a month later, everything changed as Abel Tasman ran the worst race of her life, and Monomoy Gal and Midnight Bisou both moved forward at Parx, running a big figure. My initial thoughts of all this is that these inconsistencies in both horses are weaknesses, especially for being two short-priced favorites. Also, I expect that they will probably have each other in their sights, hooking up early and quickening the pace too early. Thinking right now, I will be looking to "bet a little to win a lot" and take some longer improving horses like Midnight Bisou and Blue Prize, and maybe even La Force and Champagne Problems, especially if the inside is playing good.

Q: Who is the favorite you're taking a stand against and why?

A: The two big favorites, Enable and Newspaperofrecord, I am not against by any means, but it wouldn't be shocking if either of them lost. I guess Bellafina in the Juvenile Filly will be one I will go against, especially with her outside draw and the amount of speed in the race. Reflect might be a good priced horse to take a chance with in there.

Q: Who is the horse you're most excited to bet and why?

A: Firenze Fire in the Dirt Mile. The more I look at it, the more I think he can't lose. Also, in the Marathon on Friday, I expect Rocketry to win big right back and I am going to use him with Honorable Duty and Big Dollar Bill.

Q: The Classic: Accelerate or someone else (and who if someone else)?

A: By this time, we will have an idea on how John Sadler has done so far in this year's Breeders' Cup. His 0-41 record is well-documented. If he has had no success, you will be forced to bet against him, especially from post 14 and how he didn't break well last time. Not sure how I will go about it yet, but I know I will be using Gunnevera in everything. Interestingly, I have a future bets on Catholic Boy at 100-1 and 75-1, but I don't think he has much chance.

Breeders' Cup Turf Preview

By Mike Adams

1. Talismanic: This horse made my Breeders' Cup when he burst through the pack and scored at 14-1. We loved his two prep races last year and felt that a firm turf course would really suit him. This year he is a hard read with trips to Hong Kong and Dubai followed by a layoff. He prepped well for the Arc but was a very poor 13th. Unless his form turns around he is going to have a lot of trouble getting close to Enable or Waldgeist.
 2. Enable: Delighted to see her race in a BC, but this really makes it a one-horse race. She was clearly short in the Arc off one prep and she still got the job done. Gosden was honest before the Arc that he didn't get to put enough work in her. She loves to train and relishes the work, so I expect her to be much better than she was on Arc day, and that spells huge trouble for everyone else in this race.
 3. Channel Maker: Really kicked his season into gear at Saratoga, and then scored wire-to-wire in the Turf Classic last out at Belmont. I expect a big effort from him. He should be forwardly-placed and won't let Glorious Empire walk on the lead. Will he be good enough to hold off the Euros? Doubtful, but he should be a square price and a must use in exotics.
 4. Robert Bruce: He has turned out to be a very solid runner since arriving from Chile. His main issues are that he appears to be tough to ride, and he seems to find trouble frequently. I would not be surprised if he fires here, but he will need a clean trip and a max effort.
 5. Magical: Wheels right back after winning on British Champions day at Ascot. Her Arc was a total throwout. She drew post 16, sat last and had no chance. Finishing just five lengths of Enable was a pretty strong effort. She has the talent but will she be ready for a max effort after having two races in October and now a BC on November 3?
 6. Arklow: Has had a wonderful season capped with a win in the Kentucky Turf Cup. He is developing into a wonderful turf horse, but I think this group is just too strong for him. He is going to try hard like he always does, but I'm not convinced he is ready for a Grade 1 win
 7. Glorious Empire: The Cinderella story of 2018. What an amazing job Chuck Lawrence has done with this guy. He will be on the lead, and he can gallop all day. I don't think he is near good enough, but it would be super cool if he could be beat Enable.
 8. Liam the Charmer: Is two-for-two this year after sitting out 12 months. He looks strong and fresh, but the big question is he good enough to step up to Grade 1 company? He looks over matched, but he has solid late turn of foot and could hit the board with a big improvement.
 9. Quarteto de Cordas: The mystery horse straight from Brazil for Ian Wilkes and Brian Hernandez. Hard to know what to expect but guessing he will need the race of his life to contend here.
 10. Hi Happy: Was hot earlier in the year with wins in the Man of War, the Pan American and a near miss in the Manhattan. He wasn't as good at Saratoga and Pletcher decided to give him a month off and a prep in the Knickerbocker. I think he is a step behind here, but I think he could surprise a few people if he steps forward off a solid prep.
 11. Sadler's Joy: This horse has always been an enigma. He seldom wins, but you could see the talent and the turn of foot. He finished a strong fourth in this race last year but has been hit and miss this entire season. I think he races better on firmer turf and could be a live longshot play, particularly if the Turf on Saturday is not kind to speed.
 12. Waldgeist: This guy has had a wonderful year and was great in the Prix Foy and the Prix de Saint-Cloud but was very unlucky in the Arc. He drew post 13 and was forced to weave through traffic to get up for fourth. The draw has bit him again here with post 12, and that may compromise his chances. He always throws a good race but beating Enable from this post maybe asking a lot.
 13. Hunting Horn: Comes in off a terrible performance in the Arc and having shipped to America twice during the season. He hasn't shown himself to be a Grade 1 level runner this year and post 13 won't make it easier here.
- Analysis: This is a strong and solid group, but they should be no match for Enable. I expect her to move forward after she was clearly short in the Arc. She should get a perfect trip from post two and will be very difficult to beat. The horses with the best chance to upset her is Channel Maker. He is peaking at the right time and should get a perfect trip.
- Contenders: Enable
- Second Tier: Channel Maker, Magical, Waldgeist, Talismanic, Glorious Empire, Hi Happy, Sadler's Joy
- The Pick: Channel Maker (dead or alive I never paid the rent at 3-5)

Breeders' Cup Mile Preview

By Cangamble

This year is always a very competitive race on paper. Lots of European talent this year makes the handicapping very tough. A large field coupled with the uncertainty of the turf's condition means it is smart to look for prices.

1 One Master - A filly, trying to beat Grade 1 boys two races in-a-row. She has never gone a mile and will try to utilize her post position by taking the lead and running a shorter distance than any other horse in the race. She has bounce written all over her.

2 Next Share - Is OK at the distance. He took advantage of his inside post last time to run the best race of his life. Figures to bounce at least a little from that effort. Competitive numbers.

3 Happily - She is a 3-year-old filly who hasn't seen the winner's circle this year. Last race was her best of the year. Her post could move her up, but she is a notch below the competition in this event.

4 Pollydream - Another 3-year-old filly. She should be breathing down One Master's neck during the first six furlongs of the race. Her mile race was her worst race to date. Her numbers make her competitive, and she has a favorable running style for a Churchill mile race. Might stay for a share.

5 Oscar Performance - Loves the mile distance but may not love Churchill. Stole a win last time out with slow fractions. Not a fan of a 45+ day layoff off a win. His best effort is needed here.

6 Almanaar - His effort in the Arlington Million puts him right in the hunt. Was last race a prep for the BC Mile or is it a sign he is off form? A wet turf could negate his chances as well. A definite contender on a firm turf.

7 Expert Eye - Up and coming 3-year-old. Should be well-placed early. The seven-week layoff is not a plus. Has the numbers to be competitive but will probably come up short.

8 I Can Fly - This 3-year-old filly ran her best race to date last time out against the boys. She will benefit if the turf isn't firm. Her numbers are a little under par for these.

9 Hunt - Looks inferior numbers-wise. Hasn't raced since August. Looks like he lost a step this year. Would need a complete turnaround to be competitive.

10 Catapult - Will come running. But he might need a race. His best number puts him in the running, but he needs a few things to go his way to hit the board.

11 Lightning Spear - Has the dwelt excuse last time out. His form is under decline the past two races since his peak race in the Sussex. If he runs back to that event, he could win this race, and it might be worth the gamble to put on the top part of your tickets. May not like a soft or yielding turf course.

12 Analyze It - Ran decent last time out despite being so wide. Second race off a layoff, this 3-year-old looks slightly below par numbers wise, but he does like the distance. The post position won't help him.

13 Gustav Klimt - 0-for-five at the distance. He'll appreciate a wet turf. Has the numbers to be there. Ryan Moore keeps getting on his back, so he must have some talent. Might be the right sleeper to throw in.

14 Mustashry - Closer, likes to win. Moving up from Grade 2 victories against relatively shorter fields. Post shouldn't be a hindrance due to running style. Needs to run the race of his life to be there.

15 Divisidero - Another that is 0-for-five at the distance. Looks a tad slow for this race. Even if he gets in, tough to play.

16 Cemmie - Prefers a wet turf. This one doesn't seem to be wanting the mile distance. Another one that is tough to be bet if he gets to race.

2018 Breeders' Cup Stats Pack - Intro

From a betting perspective, the Breeders' Cup is very different than what you get for a typical weekend of racing. In many of the races the fields are large and true contention runs deep. That means favorites have a lower win percentage than normal. It also means when you have a valid opinion and one of your contenders wins - you can get paid.

The query results in the following two tables should help illustrate this point. This first table shows what would have happened had you bet $2.00 to Win, Place, and Show on every starter on Breeders' Cup Friday and Breeders' Cup Saturday over the past seven years that met the following criteria with no other handicapping whatsoever:

Data Summary	win	Place	show
Mutuel Totals	2125.80	1553.00	1549.10

Note that the strategy (post time odds greater than or equal to FieldSize divided by 1.5) has actually produced profitable win pool results on Breeders' Cup Saturday over the past seven years.

Keep in mind that I'm not advocating this as a strategy. But I do think it's noteworthy.

I wanted to include the above table in this write up because it helps illustrate the way I think about the Breeders' Cup: In many of the races the fields are large, contention runs deep, and there is VALUE to be had.

About the database

These stats were pulled from a Breeders' Cup only database that I compiled using HDW data.

The database includes all races run on Breeders' Cup Friday and Breeders' Cup Saturday for the past seven years (2011 through 2017).

The following table shows the Breeders Cup tracks in the database by year:

2011 Churchill
2012 Santa Anita
2013 Santa Anita
2014 Santa Anita
2015 Keeneland
2016 Santa Anita
2017 Del Mar

The stats presented below have been broken out using each of the following race types:

The following stat categories are presented for each race type:

NYRA Bets now available in Pennsylvania

As of today (October 31), the NYRA Bets ADW has joined the list of those available in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. This will allow people from Pennsylvania who join NYRA Bets to play in their exclusive late pick 5 wager, along with sign-up bonuses and other perks.

"NYRA Bets is proud to expand into Pennsylvania, where NYRA has a strong and loyal fan base," said Tony Allevato, President of NYRA Bets and Executive Producer for NYRA TV. "Pennsylvania residents have voiced their enthusiasm to join NYRA Bets and we are happy to now open our services to them."

Impact of Tax Withholding Changes Illustrated

According to a press release and statistics issued by the National Thoroughbred Racing Association (NTRA) on October 31, there was "a $307 million reduction in the amount of winning pari-mutuel wagers reported to the IRS using form W-2G since tax withholding changes on pari-mutuel winnings took effect last September 28. There has also been a $35 million drop in withholding from horseplayers' winnings.

"The drastic reduction in the number of winning tickets requiring reporting and withholding is consequential in several ways," said NTRA President and Chief Executive Officer Alex Waldrop. "Under the old regulations, it was not uncommon for horseplayers to feel the thrill of 'winning' only to have their proceeds reported and/or withheld by the IRS. The old regulations were both unfair and a burden to all involved. A significant overreach by the IRS has been corrected thanks to fair-minded officials at the U.S. Treasury."

Handle Declines for Belmont Fall Meet

A run of lousy weather on the East Coast was a driving factor in a handle decrease during the recently-concluded Belmont Park Fall Meet.

The all-sources handle for the meet totaled just over $269 million, a drop of 11 percent from last year's $303 million and change. A copious number of turf races were lost through the meet, with only 117 races on the lawn and 64 taken off. Last year those numbers were 181 on the grass and just five taken off.

Belmont also lost an entire card on Saturday, October 27 due to rainy conditions combined with high winds.

Keeneland Handle Soars

In contrast to Belmont, Keeneland saw a record handle set during their Fall Meet. All sources wagering was a new high of $144,309,944, besting the previous Fall Meet mark of $139,660,204 from the Fall 2013 Meet.

Churchill back on TVG's main channel

If you've turned the television to TVG lately, you may have noticed that Churchill Downs is back on the main channel. This will continue through the end of the Fall Meet. TVG will also be the only television channel where the Breeders' Cup Filly & Mare Sprint and Turf Sprint can be seen live on Saturday, November 3 as NBCSN will be in Premier League Football coverage at the time. Breeders' Cup coverage will switch to NBCSN at 1 P.M. eastern

"Churchill Downs' fall meet consistently offers some of the very best racing in the US and we are very excited to showcase this meet for racing fans across the country," said Kip Levin, CEO of TVG. "The return of the Breeders' Cup to Churchill Downs this year adds a layer of anticipation to this meet and we look forward to bringing our viewers the first two Breeders' Cup races on Championship Saturday and the supporting stakes and races on both days of the event."

Breeders' Cup Q & A with...

Candice Hare, TVG/Capping With Candice

Q: What are your thoughts on the new race order with all the 2-year-old events on Friday?

A: From a betting perspective, I find the Friday 2-year-old race day an interesting challenge. I personally enjoyed handicapping the card because it allowed me to really focus and get in the "juvenile handicapping mode." It will be interesting to see how it plays out as far as prices are concerned on the day, but on paper it appears upsets could be on the table.

Q: There's a lot of chatter on social media about the Dirt Mile not being necessary or being a hindrance on other races like the Classic and Sprint. Do you agree?

A: In an ideal world, the Breeders' Cup could be compressed into far fewer races than it is now in order to restrict it to the best horses in the country. If that were to ever take place, the Dirt Mile would and should be one of the ones to go by the wayside. I'm not sure it really compromises the Sprint much, but more often than not it winds up being a race made up of horses who weren't good enough to make the Classic.

Q: What's your favorite Breeders' Cup memory (a bet you hit, a race, etc.)?

A: I had a future wager on Bayern for the Breeders' Cup Classic so I was one of the few who felt relieved when he didn't come down via DQ. I was at that race live with a friend and her and I literally ran out of Santa Anita as fast as we possibly could.

Q: Is Enable finally the horse to end the drought of Arc winners in the Turf? If not her, then who interests you?

A: She's one of the best chances in a long time and far and away the most likely winner of the race. At the likely prices, however, Channel Maker intrigues given his improving profile and good record over both the distance and soft ground.

Q: In the other grass races, do the horses from the U.S. or Canada have any shot against the overseas invaders?

A: Yes. Horses like Sistercharlie and Fourstar Crook are leading chances in the Breeders' Cup Filly & Mare Turf.

Q: The Juvenile seems to be as noteworthy for who won't be in it (Instagrind, etc.) as who will be in it. What do you think about that race?

A: The race appears to be as wide open as ever. When the G1 Hopeful winner is 20-1, you know you have a good betting race on your hands.

Q: The Distaff features Abel Tasman taking on several talented 3-year-olds. Will you be playing one of them or going somewhere else?

A: I'm with them. As ugly as the finish to the G1 Cotillion looked to the eye, the mares have looked a weak bunch as a whole especially after Abel Tasman's flop. Monomoy Girl still looks the one for me, as her worst efforts are still better than these.

Q: Who is the favorite you're taking a stand against and why?

A: I'm against Catalina Cruiser. He's impressed in his four starts to date, but they've all come against far inferior horses in Southern California. At a price, Firenze Fire intrigues stepping back up in trip.

Q: Who is the horse you're most excited to bet and why?

A: East in the Breeders' Cup Juvenile Fillies Turf. She's lightly-raced, but has been incredibly impressive to date and the sky appears to be the limit. Her winning form over soft ground only further aids her chances given likely chance of rain throughout the week.

Q: The Classic: Accelerate or someone else (and who if someone else)?

A: Accelerate. He's dominated in Southern California and should be able to best what is a mediocre bunch overall.

Breeders' Cup Dirt Mile Preview

The Grade 1 Breeders' Cup Dirt Mile
One Mile, Dirt, 3-year-olds and up
Churchill Downs, Race 5, 1:16 PM (EDT)
Most Likely Winner: Catalina Cruiser (#10)

By Craig Milkowski, TimeformUS

The Dirt Mile is being run around one turn for the first time since the Breeders' Cup was last held at Churchill Downs back in 2011. It is the fairest test for the distance. There are no short runs to the first turn to worry about and plenty of time to get position before the horses reach the only turn. The one disadvantage belongs to horses drawn on the inside of the starting gate, particularly the inside two posts.

The TimeformUS Pace Projector is not flagging the race as favoring any particular running style. There is a good mix among the 10 horses entered on Monday. Morning line favorite Catalina Cruiser appears to have the most speed and is forecast to be in front after the opening half-mile on a clear lead. He will almost certainly be the one to catch and is aided by drawing the widest post position. He ran a 128 TimeformUS Speed Figure in his last start, a win in the G2 Pat O' Brien at Del Mar, and that will be the benchmark for this field.

Let's go through the field:

#1, CITY OF LIGHT (5-2): This 4-year-old colt began the year in fine form. After closing out 2017 by winning the G1 Malibu, he reeled off two wins, including the G2 Oaklawn Handicap where he defeated Classic morning line favorite Accelerate with a career-best TimeformUS Speed Figure of 130. That one turned the tables on him in the G1 Santa Anita Handicap, a race that was probably beyond his distance capabilities at a mile and a quarter. He was unraced for three months then returned to run second in the G1 Forego at seven furlongs at Saratoga. It was a solid return and should set him up nicely for this one. The post could be an issue and he'll need to break well to avoid being shuffled back.

#2, TRIGGER WARNING (20-1): Trigger Warning is quite the traveler. He's run at 10 different tracks in his 14 starts. The 3-year-old had third-place finishes at huge odds in the G1 Pennsylvania Derby and the G3 Ohio Derby, both at more than 80-1 odds. That said, his best figure in those 14 starts is a 122 which isn't good enough. His last two starts have been at the G1 level in races restricted to 3-year-olds, and he hasn't finished closer than nine lengths behind.

This is a major step up in class and he'd be quite the surprise.

#3, ISOTHERM (20-1): This 5-year-old has won only three of 21 career starts and all three wins have come on turf. His last start was a solid third behind the aforementioned Accelerate in the G2 Awesome Again where he finished third with a 119 TimeformUS Speed Figure. He is, to be kind, ambitiously-placed and has his work cut out for him against this group.

#4, SEVEN TRUMPETS (15-1): Another of the four 3-year-olds in the field, he will be facing older horses for the first time. In each of his last three he has hit the board without winning. Two of those were won by fellow Dirt Mile entrant Firenze Fire. In the other he finished in front of that one as the runner-up. He earned a 122 for that effort and with any improvement on that he could be a factor late in this group. He had a tough trip in his last so not dismissing this one.

#5, AWESOME SLEW (15-1): Draws the same post as he did for this race last year. He finished third that day at 14-1 odds. He likes to come from off-the-pace. He has campaigned almost exclusively in stakes, winning only three of his last 20, and all three wins were at the Grade 3 level. He simply isn't fast enough to be a win contender in this spot.

#6, SEEKING THE SOUL (5-1): The 5-year-old horse should appreciate the race being at Churchill Downs. He likes the oval in general, and the one turn mile might be his best distance. He took the G3 Ack Ack last out, a race run at this same trip at Churchill. The race featured a slow pace, coded in blue in TimeformUS Past Performance. He was able to rate near the back of the pack that day and was able to get up for a clear win despite the easy fractions. The biggest win of his career came over this surface last year when he won the G1 Clark Handicap. His speed figures are nothing special in this group. His top is a 125 that he has earned on two occasions. He is a tricky horse in this field from a betting perspective.

#7, FIRENZE FIRE (6-1): The 3-year-old tried the Derby trail and actually ran in the Derby itself, albeit poorly, but he always had the look of a horse that was more suited to one turn. All six of his career wins have come around one turn. This should be right up his alley. He exploded on Belmont Stakes day when taking the G2 Dwyer by nine lengths with a 126 figure. He rated off a tepid pace that day and exploded home to win, leaving Classic contender Mendelssohn in his wake. He has run well since without lesser speed figures, but those were at shorter trips. Strong contender.

#8, BRAVAZO (20-1): The last of the four sophomores in this race, he may be the best-known with his close runner-up finish behind Triple Crown winner Justify in the G1 Preakness. His 128 speed figure that day is his career best, but in his other 13 races he has yet to hit the 120 mark. It can be argued that his best two races, the Preakness along with the Derby two weeks prior, came over sloppy tracks and he would like it wet. If the track is fast, it would probably require blind faith in trainer D. Wayne Lukas to put this horse on your tickets.

#9, GIANT EXPECTATIONS (15-1): Another returnee to this race, he ran a ho-hum sixth last year while never contending at any point. He would need a big lifetime best to win a race of this caliber. One odd note, nine of his last 10 races have been coded in blue by TimeformUS as having a slow pace. Only about 15 percent of races get coded this way so it is quite the anomaly.

#10, CATALINA CRUISER (8-5): Undefeated in four starts and has won all by at least two lengths, totaling 18 1/2 lengths in all. He's one off the pace and on, and around one turn and two. He draws perfectly for this field. His 128 TimeformUS Speed Figure last out is the best in the field by a full six points. It sounds too good to be true and there is one glaring question mark. His trainer, the very successful John Sadler, has been anything but at the Breeders' Cup. He was yet to saddle a winner in 41 tries and has just three runner-up finishes. He does trainer Filly and Mare Sprint contender Selcourt (morning line second choice at 4-1) earlier on the card Saturday, so it is probably worth watching to see how she runs.

THE PLAY

My main strategy is to get Firenze Fire to run in the exacta while not using City of Light. I'll bet him to win and place and play him in exacta key boxes with Catalina Cruiser, Seeking the Soul, and Seven Trumpets. I will also play a few trifectas.

Win/place: 7

Exacta key box: 7 with 4, 5, 6, 8, 10

Trifecta key: 7 with 4, 5, 6, 8, 10

Trifecta: 4, 5, 6, 8, 10 with 7 with 4, 5, 6, 8, 10

Trifecta: 4, 5, 6, 8, 10 with 4, 5, 6, 8, 10, with 7

Breeders' Cup Sprint Preview

By Emily Gullikson, OptixEQ

The returning champion #9 Roy H (5-2/SOFT) comes into this race with a win last out in the Santa Anita Sprint Championship. It was his second start since Dubai and picked up the win using his class and sharp handling from Paco Lopez. Physically last year he came into the Breeders' Cup looking outstanding, and he does not give quite that same appearance this year.

On OptixPLOT, he is positioned in Quad IV. This is a bit of concern as he has been a Quad I (some Quad II) since moving to the dirt and re-establishing himself. While his class is dangerous, he is not the "standout" of last year.

#1 Whitmore (6-1/VALUE) this is a gelding that has been super-consistent and honest throughout his career. He is coming into this race with solid form and capable to get an ideal trip. For a top-level sprint race, the pace does not look to be all that "hot" despite some contention. Whitmore has the ability to track that opening flight and take first run on the closers. The morning line favorites might be a bit more vulnerable than they appear on paper, and should that be the case, he could find himself best on the day.

#2 Promises Fulfilled (6-1/SPREAD) is drawn inside, and regardless of post, his current form is the fastest early in the field. He uses his early speed and makes other horses play his game or let him go lone on the front-end. In addition to speed, he has a lot of grit. Even when slowing late he does not give up and in some way intimidates horses to pass him.

Both of these factors will make it very tough for both #5 Imperial Hint and #7 Distinctive B, the other Quad I runners.

#5 Imperial Hint (9-5/VULNERABLE) does not look to have any pace edge over PROMISES FULFILLED on OptixPLOT. He is not faster to either the first or second call. He is a Circle in Quad I, chasing behind that rival and given that PLOT information alone is worth playing against at a short price.

His recent work was a bit concerning, especially on the gallop out when he ran off with the rider and was tough to pull up.

#6 Limousine Liberal (6-1/ABOVE) returns to his home track and seemingly favorite course Churchill Downs. He has form, class and is coming into the race the right way. He is a little bit better at seven furlongs than the six furlong distance of this race.

Some of his best six furlong races were on this track and while trip will be the big factor he should give another honest effort and makes for a good exotic key.

Breeders' Cup Q & A with...

Melissa Nolan

Q: What are your thoughts on the new race order with all the 2-year-old events on Friday?

A: I happen to really like 2-year-old racing, so I'm looking forward to seeing the Future Stars strut their stuff on Friday. The 2-year-old dirt Breeders' Cup races look pretty straightforward, but I think some chaos could happen in the turf events, especially with the anticipated rain coming Wednesday and Thursday. Personally, I'm looking for Forty Under in the Juvenile Turf and The Mackem Bullet and Just Wonderful (love that her damsire is Montjeu for soft ground) in the Juvenile Fillies Turf to run big races.

Q: There's a lot of chatter on social media about the Dirt Mile not being necessary or being a hindrance on other races like the Classic and Sprint. Do you agree?

A: This year it seems like the right horses went in the right races, perhaps because this is a classic one-turn mile. The Dirt Mile perhaps affects the Classic more when it's run at two turns, but this year I think the issue is more due to a lack of horses overall than one race poaching from the others. I bet Corinthian in the very first Dirt Mile back at Monmouth so personally I'm a big fan of the race ever since.

Q: What's your favorite Breeders' Cup memory (a bet you hit, a race, etc.)?

A: Street Sense in the Juvenile! 2006 was the first Breeders' Cup I attended, and we actually bet him that day--not that I knew what I was doing back then, but we sure were happy with the money since we were poor college students back then!

Q: Is Enable finally the horse to end the drought of Arc winners in the Turf? If not her, then who interests you?

A: She's by far the horse to beat, but we've made good money in the past taking the also-rans in the Arc running back in the Breeders' Cup Turf. Waldgeist is clearly her toughest competition in there, but the Ballydoyle filly Magical has really come on recently, and I've said for a few weeks Glorious Empire is going to try and do his best "Little Mike impression" in there. Enable without a doubt, though, is the one to deny and she is so dangerous because she's tactical and can handle any ground.

Q: In the other grass races, do the horses from the U.S. or Canada have any shot against the overseas invaders?

A: Our best American hope to win a Breeders' Cup turf race is in the Turf Sprint. One American I'm looking at to maybe run a good race at a big price is Next Shares in the Breeders' Cup Mile--he's super-sharp right now, drew well, will be higher than his 10-1 ML, and can handle cut in the ground.

Q: The Juvenile seems to be as noteworthy for who won't be in it (Instagrand, etc.) as who will be in it. What do you think about that race?

A: Instagrand, Mucho, Call Paul, Cairo Cat, etc. are all missing the Breeders' Cup Juvenile but I think the right horses are still in this edition and I look forward to the East vs. West showdown we currently have on tap.

Q: The Distaff features Abel Tasman taking on several talented 3-year-olds. Will you be playing one of them or going somewhere else?

A: Abel Tasman and Monomoy Girl are our two main players (no surprise since they were both tabbed in our HANA 2-year-olds to watch article way back before they won their respective Kentucky Oaks!). Blue Prize is obviously another one we'll use on some tickets because of her record at Churchill Downs (though I have concerns about nine furlongs being her best distance), and I'm for sure using Verve's Tale at an enormous price on my verticals. I think Verve's Tale is here because Barclay knows she prefers a two-turn nine furlongs, which she doesn't often get to run up in New York.

Q: Who is the favorite you're taking a stand against and why?

A: Sistercharlie and Bellafina. Not a fan of the former having a foot bruise and missing some time (in addition to an actual run in the Flower Bowl) or her going 11 furlongs. In regards to Bellafina, I just can't get the way she crawled home in the Del Mar Debutante out of my head and her trainer has definitely had mixed results bringing favorites to Kentucky--for every American Gal there is a Moonshine Memories, for what it's worth.

Q: Who is the horse you're most excited to bet and why?

A: I don't know that I'm just dying to bet anything quite yet, and will probably wait until I can see the live odds. That said some some longshots I fancy in addition to the few I mentioned above include Chalon, Chanteline, Giant Expectations, Eziyra, and Mendelssohn.

Q: The Classic: Accelerate or someone else (and who if someone else)?

A: It's become a trendy thing to disregard him, but I think Accelerate is by far the one to beat and is the lone "Classic" horse in the race. That said, McKinzie and Mendelssohn are also A's for me.

Breeders' Cup F & M Turf Preview

By Mike Adams

1. Fourstar Crook: She has had a wonderful campaign with her only two losses coming to her stablemate Sistercharlie. In both of those races Sistercharlie was ahead of her. When she turned the tables on Sistercharlie in the New York Stake she was ahead of Sistercharlie the entire way, so the trip she works out here will be essential. She needs to be mid pack or stalking; if she is too far back she won't be able to win, but she will fire like she always does and is a must-use on all tickets
2. Thais: Has been off since she was third in the Beverly D after going to the lead. I think she is a step behind her stablemates, but she tries hard and she should get a pretty good trip from post two.
3. Wild Illusion: She has had a great year and was absolutely spectacular in Prix de l'Opera in early October. Charlie Appleby gave her a rest after winning at Goodwood in August, and she responded with a huge effort at Longchamp. She gets a weight break here and if she throws the same race she did in Paris she will be unbeatable here.
4. Paved: Was a solid second in the Rodeo Drive, but she has struggled against Grade 1 horses this year and would need to really step forward to upset this group. Not impossible but this is a huge task for her.
5. Princess Yaiza: Another 3-year-old taking on elders. Early in the season she was a few steps behind the likes of Magic Wand, but she has been improving and it all came together in the Prix de Royallieu at Longchamp in early October. She benefited from a smaller field but really dug in to hold off strong late rallies from some nice fillies. I think she will have her hands full here, but if she takes another step forward she could be a major player.
6. Sistercharlie: A head away from being undefeated this year, she comes in off an extended break after winning the Beverly D. She is an outstanding filly and you know that she will bring her 'A' game. Be wary of taking too short a price. This is a very bulky field and her only loss came as a result of a poor break. She has been able to overcome gate woes all year but with this field a mistake or traffic could cost her the race. You know she will be flying at the end no matter what happens.

7. Smart Choice: The Peruvian champion last raced in June and shows up here in the Pletcher barn. She is a true mystery. She shows steady works since the first of October but the lack of a prep and an inconsistent record in South America make her hard to recommend.
8. Fuhriously Kissed: 0-for-three in her turf career and one-for-eight this year on dirt. She does have a turf pedigree, but she would need a complete form reversal to even come close to hitting the board here.
9. A Raving Beauty: Another Chad Brown runner coming in off a fantastic year. She almost upset Sistercharlie at Saratoga and got her second Grade 1 of the year in the First Lady at Keeneland with a gritty gate-to-wire effort. Do not sell this filly short. She could work out a great trip with her tactical gate speed and if some of the others encounter traffic she could easily upset.

A Raving Beauty works out on Wednesday morning at Churchill Downs - ©Evers/Eclipse Sportswire/Breeders' Cup photo

10. Magic Wand: Not sure what to expect from her here. She has had a long campaign and this will be her ninth start of the year. She was good early but then flopped in the Irish Oaks and the Yorkshire Oaks. She regained her form at Longchamp in the fall but was no match for Wild Illusion in the Prix de l'Opera. Post 10 might give her a wide trip, and I would not be shocked if she won, but my sense is that she may get overbet.
11. Mom's On Strike: Another solid filly who always tries hard. She will be flying at the end, but I'm not convinced she is a Grade 1 talented filly. It's not impossible for her to upset, but she would need everything to break right and she would need to fire her best performance of her life.

12. Santa Monica: Her campaign has been spread out and she comes in off a third in the E.P. Taylor. Another who could upset, but I question if she is really good enough to take on a field as talented as this one. Her races on firm turf have been excellent, but she would really need to improve to hit the board here.
13. Athena: Another one who is coming in off a long campaign and is hard to recommend. Her Belmont Oaks was spectacular, but since then she has looked very flat, and she is hard to recommend off her current form and post 13.
14. Eziyra: A lightly-raced filly with exceptional connections. She came back very strong to win the Blandford Stakes at the Curragh in September and now picks up Dettori. This filly is one who could upset at a big price. She is on the improve and will be overlooked from post 14.

Analysis: Most Breeders' Cup races have full fields and can be fairly wide-open with multiple contenders and a slew of others who have a chance to win, but in this year's Filly and Mare Turf it looks like the cream is going to rise to the top. That means that the likely winners include Fourstar Crook, Sistercharlie, and Wild Illusion. Outside of that group I could see Eziyra, Magic Wand and A Raving Beauty having small chances to upset.

The big three here look just too strong and I feel strongly that the winner will be one of those three.

Top Contenders: Fourstar Crook, Sistercharlie, Wild Illusion

Second Tier: Magic Wand, A Raving Beauty, Eziyra, Princess Yaiza

The Pick: Wild Illusion

Breeders' Cup Q & A with...

Craig Johnson

Q: What are your thoughts on the new race order with all the 2-year-old events on Friday?

A: I like the new race order it brings the Distaff back to Championship Saturday. The Juvenile races are not "true" Grade 1's with most horses having limited starts and gives more focus on the Juvenile as the feature race on Friday. People wagering on Saturday are familiar with the Distaff division and will benefit from handicapping the multi-leg wagers.

Q: There's a lot of chatter on social media about the Dirt Mile not being necessary or being a hindrance on other races like the Classic and Sprint. Do you agree?

A: I believe the Dirt Mile has taken away from the Sprint and the Classic. The original intent, which was to have seven Championship races, I feel has lost some of the prestige. It is now a "betting and wagering" event, which is not a bad thing. Overall the Classic has probably been watered down the most over the years. I think most "bettors" want full fields and the potential for a score. The Classic field is missing some of the quality. But having the dirt mile adds to the overall handle and increases some of the betting options.

Q: What's your favorite Breeders' Cup memory (a bet you hit, a race, etc.)?

A: From a betting standpoint - Alphabet Soup capping off a win bet and pick three wagers. Arazi from a style standpoint was visually-captivating in the Juvenile, one of the most amazing sustained runs I have watched.

Q: Is Enable finally the horse to end the drought of Arc winners in the Turf? If not her, then who interests you?

A: Enable was inferior this year to her Arc performance from 2017. She ran slower, faced a weaker field and was all out at the finish and has had issues this year. People are handicapping this race off Enable's form from last year and her races from last year. Race form doesn't last forever. I can't imagine her winning this race. Sadler's Joy and Robert Bruce are the two that interest me most.

Q: In the other grass races, do the horses from the U.S. or Canada have any shot against the overseas invaders?

A: I think the U.S. and Canada horses should do well in the Breeders' Cup Mile. They have a pace and race flow edge in that race. This race looks wide open, and race flow and velocity will determine the outcome. The "best" horse may not win.

Q: The Juvenile seems to be as noteworthy for who won't be in it (Instagrand, etc.) as who will be in it. What do you think about that race?

A: A strong field of contenders who are all working well and seem poised to have career-best efforts. Complexity, Code of Honor, Standard Deviation and Game Winner are all coming into the race in peak form and Complexity is not getting enough credit for a dominating "old school" ran-them-off-their-feet effort in the Champagne. He has the pace edge and continues to work well. Game Winner has put together three solid races. Overall a talented field of the best horses in training now. The top horses for next year are probably not running in this race.

Q: The Distaff features Abel Tasman taking on several talented 3-year-olds. Will you be playing one of them or going somewhere else?

A: Abel Tasman seems to be tailing off. I will use this as a spread race, and I prefer some of the older horses in Wow Cat, La Force, and Blue Prize.

Q: Who is the favorite you're taking a stand against and why?

A: Enable. Enable is being hyped based on the races she ran last year. In 2017 Enable dominated the Arc against stronger competition and had a full campaign to get ready. She has done little this year, and her Arc was an average effort against a below-average field for the Arc. The 2018 Arc was a weak race compared to the previous five to seven Arc fields. The fact that Enable was 4-5 in that field based off one synthetic prep gives me a lot to ponder. Every year the Europeans tell us the Arc winner is the greatest ever. It's just not true.

Q: Who is the horse you're most excited to bet and why?

A: Imperial Hint - From the Fighting City of Philadelphia, he has cruised this year. Should get a pace set-up and challenged enough to throw down a 1:07 and change and maybe a 115 Plus Beyer speed figure. The "Pocket Rocket" is one of the fastest sprinters of the last 20 years.

Q: The Classic: Accelerate or someone else (and who if someone else)?

A: Accelerate is capable of winning, but I'm not sure he is peaking. Catholic Boy has gotten my attention with three straight races that are under-appreciated. His resoluteness has been fun to watch. The race flow screams pace-collapse, but Catholic Boy may come from behind three-to-four lengths off the pace in this race. Catholic Boy is my top selection, but several have a chance this is a wild finish to the two days.

Breeders' Cup Juvenile Turf Preview

By Mike Adams

1. Arthur Kitt: looks overmatched here after a poor fifth in the Royal Lodge at Newmarket. He may benefit from a move to two turns and firmer turf but looks like an outsider at best.
2. Uncle Benny: Jason Servis has been on a huge roll, and this horse is worth taking a flyer on, especially in exotics. It's asking a lot to put him in this spot, but Benny looks very talented, and he has a huge turn of foot.
3. Much Better: ran an absolute monster race in the Zuma Beach. He was close to a hot pace, was forced into a premature move, and still hung on for second. If he gets the right trip he will be the one to beat.

4. Forty Under: took a huge step forward in the Pilgrim where he benefited from a great ride by Manny Franco. He is on the improve and could get the right trip. A solid contender.
5. Line of Duty: He was a sharp winner at Chantilly going a mile and an eighth on soft turf. Appleby tends to only bring runners who like firm turf to the Breeders' Cup, so I expect this one to fire. Don't forget this combo scored with Outstrip a couple of years ago in this exact race.
6. Henley's Joy: has two wins and a second so far in his young career, but he got a dream trip in the Bourbon and could not convert. He would have to really step forward to win here
7. Somelikeithotbrown: Another runner with a good record who could upset, but I'm not convinced he is ready to step forward. He really has had no excuses in his last two, and Irad Ortiz chose to ride Uncle Benny.

8. Opry: Was a solid winner at Saratoga but failed to fire in the Pilgrim. Was it the softer turf at Belmont? He figures to be a square price, but I think he is deep water here.
9. The Black Album: Won the Prix la Rochette at Longchamp at a huge price and was purchased by Gary Barber and Team Valor after. He is a hard-trying runner, and he could upset if he takes to Churchill and some firmer turf.
10. War of Will: Went a long way on the lead in the Bourbon but probably should won off that trip. He is a maiden and probably only hits the board if he benefits from a favorable pace setup.
11. King of Speed: Comes in off two wins, and in his last he greatly benefited from a hot pace and great Stevens ride. He will be coming again at the end and has a chance to hit the board if he gets the right pace setup.
12. Current: was very green in the Bourbon but showed a great turn of foot when he finally switched leads and was able to run down the leaders. Post 12 will greatly hinder him, but he looks very talented and could take a big step forward if he can work out a trip.
13. Marie's Diamond: Re-rallied to end up fourth in the Middle Park at Newmarket. He has some tactical speed but post 13 and a quality field like this make him an unlikely winner.
14. Anthony Van Dyck: He was no match for the ultra-talented Too Darn Hot in the Dewhurst. He adds Lasix and is reunited with Ryan Moore. He is a strong contender, but I would be wary of taking too short a price on him from post 14.

Analysis: This edition of the Juvenile Turf is very deep with a true collection of horses from New York, Kentucky, California, and Europe. This field has a lot of talent, so getting the right pace and the right trip will be essential for the winning horse. Much Better, Current, and Line of Duty look like solid contenders. Forty Under is on the improve and his ability to sit mid-pack will really help him. Line of Duty looks like he is really sitting a great race but both Much Better and Current look ultra-talented. I think these four stand out but given the depth of this field, do not be afraid to spread out in your wagering.

Top Contenders: Much Better, Forty Under, Line of Duty, Current

Second Tier: Uncle Benny, The Black Album, King of Speed, Anthony Van Dyck

The Pick: Line of Duty

Breeders' Cup Q & A with...

Nicolle Neulist, blinkers-off.com

Q: What are your thoughts on the new race order with all the 2-year-old events on Friday?

A: The new race order makes perfect sense. Five races is enough to feel like a full day of the Breeders' Cup. And, it allows the people who like to handicap and bet 2-year-old races to apply that acumen to the multi-race sequences on Friday.

The juvenile day has a gaping hole, though: a dirt sprint. Yes, the Breeders' Cup tried one in 2011 and 2012, and it was axed after a short field in 2012. But, Breeders' Cup has learned its lesson from that failure. They implemented the Juvenile Turf Sprint this year along with a series of four "Win and You're In" races to go with it. Those included turf sprints at Royal Ascot, Keeneland, Santa Anita, and Belmont. In other words, they're doing the work to develop a division around the race.

Contrast that with the Juvenile Sprint, for which there were no "Win and You're In" races in 2011, and then just one in 2012. The one in 2012 wasn't even on the right surface: the Juvenile Sprint was on dirt, but the Win and You're In was the Middle Park, a turf sprint at Newmarket. The Breeders' Cup should revisit the idea of a Juvenile Sprint -- after all, not every 2-year-old dirt horse is a two-turn horse. But, it needs to make sure to set up a structure of "Win and You're In" dirt sprints around it, since building a division around the race will build a better field for the race.

Q: There's a lot of chatter on social media about the Dirt Mile not being necessary or being a hindrance on other races like the Classic and Sprint. Do you agree?

A: A two-turn Dirt Mile devolves into Classic-lite: a short route for those who can't stay the Classic distance. But, I love the Dirt Mile at one turn. The one-turn mile requires a mix of speed and stamina sufficiently different from both the six-furlong Sprint and the ten-furlong Classic that it becomes a true showcase of middle-distance dirt horses who can carry speed. The ability to run a one-turn mile should be a prerequisite for a track to have a Breeders' Cup at all.

Q: What's your favorite Breeders' Cup memory (a bet you hit, a race, etc.)?

A: The 2014 Breeders' Cup Sprint could not have gone more perfectly. I was out at Hawthorne that day, and post time for the Sprint fell right between the seventh and the eighth. I had enough time after the seventh to get a bet down on the Sprint and then head down to the paddock. I checked the tote at Santa Anita -- Rich Tapestry, who I had planned to bet, had been hammered down to 5-2. Meanwhile, Illinois-bred Work All Week sat somewhere near 20-1. Maybe I was being a homer, but Work All Week had still never lost in a dirt sprint, and he had beaten good enough horses in the Phoenix (G2) to rate an outside shot. I called an audible; instead of betting Rich Tapestry to win, I put my money on Work All Week instead.

I got down to the little underground paddock at Hawthorne. The TV, usually tuned to Hawthorne's feed, was flipped to Santa Anita. I would usually scrutinize every joint, every step, of the $15,000 claimers, non-winners of two lifetime, who were beginning to file into the paddock. Instead, I watched Chicago's favorite son bound out of a starting gate 2,000 miles away.

1:08.28 later, as Work All Week held Secret Circle half a length a bay, I struggled to express my enthusiasm in a way that wouldn't spook all the horses. He had done it! My near future held a cashed ticket, and therefore a nice bottle of whiskey. And, even better, the eyes of the racing world would turn, if for only a moment, to a horse from my home circuit.

Q: Is Enable finally the horse to end the drought of Arc winners in the Turf? If not her, then who interests you?

A: Enable does look like the horse who can end the drought, but it's more about her place on the form cycle than it is about the fact that she is such a talented turf mare. The Arc is so often the goal of a long campaign, with the Breeders' Cup Turf that lucrative "One Race Too Many." But, Enable comes into the Breeders' Cup Turf third off an 11-month layoff, making it reasonable to think she will be the rare Arc winner who enters the Breeders' Cup even sharper.

Among the rest in the Breeders' Cup Turf, Waldgeist is the other horse who makes sense to cover in a multi-race wager. He has found the best form of his life this year, and finished a respectable fourth in the Arc last time out. He also comes third off a two and a half month layoff, so has upside to improve from the Arc.

Q: In the other grass races, do the horses from the U.S. or Canada have any shot against the overseas invaders?

A: Though Enable and Waldgeist tower in the Turf, the other grass races have plenty of North American horses who should be able to hold their own, and several of my top selections are from the continent. Oscar Performance has emerged a juggernaut at a flat mile this year, and ought to continue the pattern of every Woodbine Mile (G1) winner in the 2010's finishing in the money in the Mile. The Juvenile Turf looks ripe for chaos, and in that wide-open race, the tactically-versatile and route-bred Uncle Benny has a world of upside. Newspaperofrecord impressed both on debut and in the Miss Grillo (G2), has shown the ability to handle ground with give, and hails from a Chad Brown barn that has won three of the last four editions of the Juvenile Fillies Turf. Brown also has a five-strong contingent in the Filly and Mare Turf. Though Sistercharlie is generally regarded as the top of his string, I'm taking Fourstar Crook to turn the tables. She is the only one to beat Sistercharlie this year, defeating her by a head in the New York (G2) on Belmont weekend, and the mile and three eighths may suit her even better.

Q: The Juvenile seems to be as noteworthy for who won't be in it (Instagrاند, etc.) as who will be in it. What do you think about that race?

A: Instagrاند isn't casting an imposing shadow over the race -- but, in his absence, Game Winner is. He has done everything asked of him in California, notching three daylight wins in three races. It does not hurt his case that he is owned by Gary and Mary West and trained by Bob Baffert: just like 2013 Breeders' Cup Juvenile winner New Year's Day. There are a few interesting competitors who could move up: Standard Deviation may get more pace to chase and may settle a bit closer with blinkers, and Code of Honor should turn in an improved effort with more distance, especially with a better start. But, Game Winner sits atop the juvenile dirt route division until someone can topple him.

Q: The Distaff features Abel Tasman taking on several talented 3-year-olds. Will you be playing one of them or going somewhere else?

A: I like Monomoy Girl best of the Distaff contenders. She has been consistent all year long, and has taken well to both Churchill and the nine-furlong trip. Though she is a 3-year-old facing older, the older horses don't loom particularly tough unless Abel Tasman returns to her best. Off that last effort, I can't trust her to do so.

But, the Distaff is my least-favorite betting race of the day. I'm not convinced by any individual alternative to Monomoy Girl, but I'm not convinced Monomoy Girl will be worth the short tote price. I'll have lean into Monomoy Girl if I play multi-race wagers through the Distaff, backing up with the likes of Wow Cat (who is getting her American sea legs), Midnight Bisou (who is improving for Asmussen), and Vale Dori (who woke up with blinkers last time out), but I'm more likely to focus my betting action on races other than the Distaff.

Q: Who is the favorite you're taking a stand against and why?

A: Both Accelerate in the Classic and Catalina Cruiser in the Dirt Mile are hard stand-againsts. Of course Accelerate's post doesn't help him. Of course the fact that Catalina Cruiser has only run four times (and never at the one-turn mile) doesn't help him. But, the core reason for opposing both is the same.

It's hardly original to be wary of John Sadler shippers -- but with his 0-41 record in the Breeders' Cup (including not just shippers, but Accelerate in the Dirt Mile last year over a local Del Mar course he was known to like!), this is the perfect time of year to stand against short-priced favorites from the shedrow.

Q: Who is the horse you're most excited to bet and why?

A: Firenze Fire in the Dirt Mile.

In one-turn mile races. I love playing horses who have already proven themselves adept at one-turn miles.

Firenze Fire has, winning three of four at the trip, most recently when dismantling Seven Trumpets and Mendelssohn in the Dwyer (G3).

And, with a pair of California shippers likely to take action at the windows, Firenze Fire will be no worse than third wagering choice in the field. But, though the seven-furlong form is admittedly a positive sign, neither Catalina Cruiser nor City of Light has even tried a one-turn mile yet. Furthermore, jockey Irad Ortiz rode City of Light last time out in the Forego (G1), but instead chooses to stick with Firenze Fire, with whom he has partnered in his last three races.

Q: The Classic: Accelerate or someone else (and who if someone else)?

A: I loved Catholic Boy in the Travers (G1), and I'm staying in his camp for the Breeders' Cup Classic. Yes, it's his first race against older horses, and he hasn't run since the Travers. But, Jonathan Thomas has been a whiz at training Catholic Boy to be ready for spaced-out races. He has proven mile and a quarter stamina. Finally, even though he has been on or near the lead in his last three starts, Catholic Boy is tactically-versatile enough to sit off the pace if he needs. It wouldn't be a surprise if he just sits off Mendelssohn like he did in the Travers, but he won't be forced to battle if the likes of Thunder Snow, West Coast, or even Axelrod stomp on the gas. All this adds up to Catholic Boy having the tools he needs to win the Classic.

Breeders' Cup Sprint Preview

By Craig Johnson

A rousing rendition of the 2018 Breeders' Cup Sprint is on tap, with five contenders who are sharp and battle-tested ready to match strides at six furlongs and declare a true Sprint Champion for 2018.

Imperial Hint - The Pocket Rocket from the Fighting City of Philadelphia gets the rematch with Roy H, who defeated him last year in the Breeders' Cup Sprint at Old Del Mar. This year they meet on a neutral court, and Imperial Hint has back-to-back Grade 1 victories coming into the race. He has the most tactical speed of the top contenders. A winning trip would have him just off the pace of Promises Fulfilled, then he would find a seam and get the jump on the horses coming from behind. Gritty and fast, he has all the tools. And he continues to breathe fire in the mornings.

His only knock is a 0-for-two record at Churchill Downs, but one of those races was at seven furlongs in the slop, and the second one was a loss in the Pat Day Mile. His lifetime six-furlong record is eight wins in 11 starts with two seconds.

Roy H - The defending champion comes in off a victory but now has to take his talents on the road to Churchill Downs.

Roy H won last year's Breeders' Cup Sprint and is back to defend his title - photo by Penelope P. Miller, America's Best Racing

He has benefited from small fields in his wins this year and now faces the best of the division. In 2017 he took advantage of the extreme bias at Del Mar. He faces an overall stricter field, but he has three-to-four races that can win this 2018 sprint. Will try to stay close enough to mow them down late. The outside post should help, and he gets Paco Lopez back in the saddle, who won with him in the True North and Santa Anita Sprint Championship. Lopez is aggressive and should have him close to the pace. To be the Champ, you have to beat the Champ.

Promises Fulfilled - is razor sharp and has dominated the 3-year-old division with authoritative victories at Saratoga, defeating the top sophomores, and then beat older horses at Keeneland. Blocky and well-muscled, he has a high cruising speed and a pit-bull mentality. He wants the lead but doesn't need the point, and he may still have room for improvement. This guy is fast and game - if you mess with the bull, you will get the horns.

Whitmore-is the old pro; he dances all the dances, and six furlongs may be his best distance. He picked up the win in the Forego with the perfect trip. He will try to motor late and pick up the pieces if the pace gets hot. Small margin for error and will need a good trip and the right pace flow to get the win.

Limousine Liberal-comes in off a defeat to Promises Fulfilled and Whitmore, but gets more pace in this race and had trip-trouble at Keeneland which may lower his price. Has raced well at Churchill and can run inside and outside with his move. It may be his turn to pick up the big prize. The morning line is 6-1 will drift slightly higher, and he needs a few horses to regress or a speed duel to develop to set up his run.

My top selection is Imperial Hint, he is sharp, working fast and gets the speed to chase Promises Fulfilled for a half and get the first jump and keep Roy H on the outside. My other choice is Limousine Liberal who may benefit from a fast pace and has been training at Churchill Downs for a couple of years.

Breeders' Cup Q & A with...

Mike Adams

Q: What are your thoughts on the new race order with all the 2-year-old events on Friday?

A: I like the format change. It splits up the race nicely and makes for a better betting card on Friday IMO.

Q: There's a lot of chatter on social media about the Dirt Mile not being necessary or being a hindrance on other races like the Classic and Sprint. Do you agree?

A: I think the Dirt Mile is a great race and except for when Liam's Map skipped it hasn't taken away from the Classic. I do think it should only be run at tracks like Churchill that can run a true 1 turn mile.

Q: What's your favorite Breeders' Cup memory (a bet you hit, a race, etc.)?

A: I have a bunch and they all involve betting...so in no particular order. Ghostzapper, Unbridled Song, Talismanic, Better Talk Now, Outstrip, Lure, Da Hoss and Blame

Q: Is Enable finally the horse to end the drought of Arc winners in the Turf? If not her, then who interests you?

A: Yes, she was clearly short at the end of the Arc, and she should actually be much stronger at Churchill. If she gets upset it will be by Channel Maker.

Q: In the other grass races, do the horses from the U.S. or Canada have any shot against the overseas invaders?

A: Yes, I think Fourstar Crook, Sistercharlie, Current, Much Better, Forty Under, Newspaperofrecord and Concrete Rose all have big chances to beat the Euros on the turf.

Q: The Juvenile seems to be as noteworthy for who won't be in it (Instagrاند, etc.) as who will be in it. What do you think about that race?

A: I think it's a solid, quality field. It reminds me a lot of the race that Uncle Mo won in 2010 at Churchill, and I think the cream will rise to the top.

Q: The Distaff features Abel Tasman taking on several talented 3-year-olds. Will you be playing one of them or going somewhere else?

A: I don't have a real strong opinion in that race but given the connections involved it will be very easy to cheer against Able Tasman and the 3-year-olds while hoping Blue Prize or Champagne Problems beat them all.

Q: Who is the favorite you're taking a stand against and why?

A: Probably Imperial Hint. He is 0 for 2 at Churchill and figures to be a very short price

Q: Who is the horse you're most excited to bet and why?

A: This always changes as the week goes on, but at press time it's Line of Duty in the Juvenile Turf or Roaring Lion in the Classic.

Q: The Classic: Accelerate or someone else (and who if someone else)?

A: I've always loved Yoshida and having Mott in your corner for a BC Classic at Churchill is always good. I also am a big fan of Roaring Lion and I have been waiting all year to see him run on Dirt. He has been so good this season and being a Kitten's Joy out of a Street Sense mare he may take to the dirt and crush these.

Breeders Crown Review

Rain or Shine, the Breeders Crown delivers

By Dean Towers, Harness Racing Update

Golf fans lament the weather at the British Open, but I'm not sure that championship can hold a candle to ours of late. This year, the rain came down, and to make matters worse, the temperature was colder than I generally am at the windows.

I don't know how you feel, but when all was said and done it made no difference at all to me. It was a great night. Please allow me to whip through a few things that caught my eye, minute by minute during the evening.

The first Crown race of the night saw the uber-talented Warrawee Ubeaut convert after being tested mercilessly by several good fillies. She looks like something special. The kick-off race reminded me how good harness racing is when the fields are evenly matched and the drivers give it a go. It was wonderfully entertaining, and the bettors responded with a Pick 4 pool that approached $60,000.

Twenty minutes later, we saw a 2-year-old trotter (who looks as handy as a 4-year-old pacer) splish-splash to a convincing win to keep his undefeated record intact. If you're not excited to see what Gimpanzee can do next year I don't think you like harness racing. Marcus Melander ran one-two.

If you were impressed with Gimpanzee I suspect you marveled a few moments later at another Chapter Seven offspring in Woodside Charm. She's seven-for-seven, and she's sensational. How nice is it that even in this day and age a small stable can get a horse like this?

The fireworks returned for the 3-year-old filly pace with Yannick Gingras parking out Scotty Z and Kissin In The Sand, yet again, as he did in the Lynch in June. The result was not too dissimilar, because Kissin In The Sand is simply a better horse, but it was a shame the Nancy Johansson-trained filly could not take home the roses. She is an amazingly determined, class filly and deserved better off that monster effort.

How good is Tactical Landing right now? Congrats to Jim Takter for his patience and horsemanship. What a great job.

Captain Crunch had terrible racing luck last week for the aforementioned Johansson, but this week it could not have worked out better. And after Kissin In The Sand, she probably deserved some racing luck. It's fitting that Sweet Lou and Captaintreacherous both landed in the Crown winner's circle as sires in their first crops.

The Crown for older trotters was probably another victory we could describe as fitting, where Homicide Hunter, as the fastest trotter of the season (and in harness racing), bounced back from a sub-par effort in his elimination to grab the chocolates. George Napolitano won his first ever Breeders Crown.

Shartin N looked beaten. She really looked beaten; well to me, anyway, but she had other ideas. She's 100 percent Standardbred racehorse. Jim King got his first Crown, and I thought that was so nice to see.

The mandatory payout of the Pick 5 generated $72,000 of new wagering, which was slightly above the normal 300 percent of the carryover.

Who did you like out of the big four in the filly trot: Atlanta, Plunge Blue Chip, Phaetosive or Manchego? The quietly-good Lily Stride had something to say about it and lit up the toteboard for Tetrack and Harder. You just never know in this game.

If it all comes down to the Breeders Crown, a hard-luck horse in Dorsduro Hanover finally got his due. The son of the late Somebeachsomewhere was nothing short of brilliant as he crushed a nice field through wicked fractions. Matt Kakaley got his second of the night; although for this one he'd probably give all the props to a fantastic colt.

Luc Blais is a very good horseman who can get a horse ready for a big event, and he did it once again with Emoticon Hanover. The daughter of Kadabra gave Ontario-sired horses their second win of the evening. Huge props to Ake Svanstedt for his move with Ice Attraction. It made the race and he almost stole it.

The last race of the evening was the open pace, and while this year's event wasn't quite as compelling as most years, we still had McWicked against Lazarus. It's a shame the Down Under horse had issues, because off a 55.2 half the race would've probably been interesting if he was right.

It was a tough year with a lot of bad weather for the cards to try 15 percent takeout, but I can tell you without equivocation the customers I spoke with appreciated it. If the Crown sticks with promotions like this, I think they'll build not only a good racing brand for the future, but a good betting brand, too.
